Summary

I'm a software engineer based in West Palm Beach, FL. I'm the co-founder of Campion ⧉, an edge-based serverless middleware for implementing circuit-breaking functionality for distributed services. I have multiple years of experience with technologies across the entire stack, such as the JavaScript and Ruby ecosystems, and cloud services such as AWS and Cloudflare. Previously, I founded a few companies in the tech industry, one of which, BooklyBox, was successfully acquired by Quarterly ⧉.
